

Attention Business Editors
November 2007

Drake opens Dunedin office

Leading recruitment and human resources consulting company Drake International is extending its national network by opening a new office in Dunedin this month.

The new office is being managed by Justine Fisher who has moved to Dunedin from the company's head office in Auckland.

She says the focus of the new office will be on both permanent recruitment and the provision of temporary workers.

"We are the preferred supplier of contract staff to a number of major organisations operating in the Otago and Southland, including Fonterra and the Inland Revenue, so we will be providing access to employment for a range of local people.

"We will be focusing on growing all aspects of our overload and permanent business and I'm personally looking forward to becoming actively involved in the local business community."

Justine was previously a Drake Overload Team Leader at the company's Auckland City branch. For her an added attraction in Dunedin is that her partner Matt Harvie is contracted to the Otago cricket team this summer.

The new Dunedin office, the company's 11th in New Zealand, will be located at Level 2, Upstart House, 333 Princes Street.

For further information:

Justine Fisher
Team Leader
jfisher@nz.drakeintl.com

About Drake International

Drake International is a leading provider of staffing solutions that solve business problems for New Zealand organisations. Established in Canada in 1951, Drake operates in 8 countries around the world.

More than a recruitment company, Drake is recognised as a world leader by business decision makers, for its expertise in enabling organisations to improve their profitability and productivity through flexible staffing, permanent recruitment, training and development, and by using innovative technologies.

Drake's extensive network of services meets the diverse needs of the market and is geared towards solving real business problems for New Zealand organisations.

In its 55 year history, Drake's business philosophy has remained unchanged – invest in your people today so they can grow your business tomorrow and into the future.

Phone: 0800 840 940

www.drakeintl.com